

I was watching TV when I saw my English teacher Ms Capdeville: she was answering an interview. Although I was extremely surprised to see her on TV, the 5-thousands-feet dinosaur in the background shocked me even more. It was destroying every buildings around him, all the breathtakingly beautiful French windows! She was tremendously angry because her interview was brutally interrupted, so she suddenly yelled on the top of her lungs "Pop quiz" at the dinosaur while frantically smashing her bell. The dinosaur was so scared that he ran away. She later realized that the dinosaur was in fact Pierre-Antoine's shadow. He was just looking for some mushrooms but demolished half the planet in his search. Thankfully, I remained on the untouched part of the Earth!